DEBRA HANCHER JOINS ENERGY SERVICES FIRM CSG AS MID-ATLANTIC OPERATIONS DIRECTOR

WESTBOROUGH, Mass., April 26, 2010--Conservation Services Group (CSG) today announced the appointment of Debra Hancher as Mid-Atlantic operations director, according to CSG Executive Vice President of Regions Adam Parker. In her new position, Hancher supervises finance managers and application support staffers and is responsible for managing all Mid-Atlantic operations for the national energy services firm. Hancher is based out of CSG's Albany, N.Y. office.

Most recently, Hancher was operations planning and finance manager for Lockheed Martin Corporation, based in Bethesda, Md. In this position, she was responsible for the financial aspects of residential building programs including home performance. Hancher also worked as a vice president in the securitized products division at JPMorgan Chase Bank in New York City, where she spent 17 years. During her tenure there, Hancher served on a team that created a new securitization product that successfully reduced $2 billion of credit risk in the commercial loan portfolio. As a result of this work, this transaction won one of Institutional Investor's "2000 Derivatives Deal of the Year" awards.

Hancher holds an MBA in finance from New York University. She graduated from Wells College in Aurora, N.Y., where she received a B.A. in economics. Hancher is a native of Saratoga Springs, N.Y. where she currently resides.

Parker said, "We are delighted to have Debra join the CSG team. Her skills and experience will help support the expansion of services in the Mid-Atlantic, as this region is growing at an exceptional rate."
